Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR)

The Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR) is a network of over 1,200 research economists based mostly in European universities. The Centre's goal is twofold: to promote world-class research, and to get the policy-relevant results into the hands of key decision-makers.

CEPR's guiding principle is 'Research excellence with policy relevance'.

A registered charity since it was founded in 1983, CEPR is independent of all public and private interest groups. It takes no institutional stand on economic policy matters and its core funding comes from its Institutional Members and sales of publications. Because it draws on such a large network of researchers, its output reflects a broad spectrum of individual viewpoints as well as perspectives drawn from civil society.

CEPR research may include views on policy, but the Trustees of the Centre do not give prior review to its publications. The opinions expressed in this report are those of the authors and not those of CEPR.

European University Institute (EUI)

The European University Institute (EUI), located in Florence, Italy, was founded in 1972 by the European Community Member States to provide advanced training to Ph.D. and LL.M. researchers and to promote research in the social sciences at the highest levels.

An international organisation with a European focus, doctoral and post-doctoral scholars from all over the world pursue academic research in its four departments of Law, History, Economics and Social and Political Science and at the Max Weber Programme for Post-doctoral Studies.

The Institute is also home to the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies (RSCAS), which is devoted to high-quality research on the dynamics of European integration, broadly defined, and Europe's global role. The RSCAS hosts dozens of international research projects focusing mainly on the areas of Integration, Governance and Democracy; Regulating Markets and Governing Money; and 21st Century World Politics and Europe.

The EUI is also home to the Historical Archives of the European Union, the official repository for the EU institutions.

International Trade Centre (ITC)

The International Trade Centre (ITC) is the only development agency that is fully dedicated to supporting the internationalization of small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs).

This means that the agency enables SMEs in developing and transition economies to become more competitive and connect to international markets for trade and investment, thus raising incomes and creating job opportunities, especially for women, young people, and poor communities.

Established in 1964, the International Trade Centre (ITC) is the joint agency of the World Trade Organization and the United Nations.
