ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This study was undertaken upon the request of the Government of Tunisia to assist the country in evaluating whether it should become a participant in the Information Technology Agreement of the World Trade Organization.

The study was prepared by a team led by Mina Mashayekhi, Head, Trade Negotiations and Commercial Diplomacy Branch, Division of International Trade in Goods and Services and Commodities. The team comprised Thomas Mathew, Ralf Peters and Mesut Saygili, Trade Negotiations and Commercial Diplomacy Branch.

The authors wish to thank the Government of Tunisia, including Fatma Brahim, Director in charge of the multilateral trading system and relations with the World Trade Organization, Ministry of Trade and Crafts, for invaluable feedback on the study in its draft stage. The feedback was duly considered and incorporated, as appropriate, in this edition. Thanks are also extended to Raja Yousfi, Counsellor, and Abdelhamid Gharbi, Counsellor, Permanent Mission of Tunisia to the United Nations Office at Geneva, for the close cooperation they rendered throughout the study period, to Suja Rishikesh Mavroidis, Roy Santana and Darlan Fonseca Marti, World Trade Organization secretariat, for the useful background information with regard to the request for this study and to Hamed El Kady, Investment and Enterprise Division, for his contribution on issues related to international investment agreements.

Sophie Munda was responsible for formatting the publication. The cover page was designed by Laura Moresino-Borini.
