Acknowledgements

The UNDP '3x6 toolkit' has been developed by a team of United Nations Development Programme (UNDP)P Programme Managers with long-standing experience in the design and implementation of the '3x6' approach in one or more contexts. We would like to thank, in particular, Craig Castro, Caroline Lensing-Hebben, Minako Manome and Afke Bootsman for their tireless commitment, invaluable contributions and new ideas for the successful implementation of the 3x6 approach itself, as well as for the development of the toolkit. Their inputs were provided on top of their daily work in very challenging environments. All the resources used in the design of the toolkit are based on the conceptualization and ideas of their teams and of their government counterparts in Yemen, the DRC, Jordan and Burundi – including their innovative ideas on how to adapt the 3x6 approach to the specific contexts and opportunities at hand. We thank them also for their willingness to test and try new programme development using the 3x6.

Particular recognition goes to Gustavo Gonzalez (Director, Sub-Regional Facility for the Syria Crisis), who prototyped the 3x6 concept and led its implementation in different post-crisis contexts, including the initial implementation in Burundi. Peer reviewers also played a key role in the finalization of this document. Their comments, observations and recommendations were extremely useful in shaping the toolkit. We remain grateful for their support.

Azul Muñoz Leira was the lead consultant for the development of the toolkit, under the overall coordination of Leontine Specker (UNDP Bureau for Policy and Programme Support, Sustainable Development Cluster). We are also extremely grateful to have been able to work with Sebastian Villar on the design and layout of the toolkit. Without his seemingly unending flow of ideas, and his patience and commitment, we would not have been able to make this a user-friendly product.

We would also like to thank the UNDP Regional Bureau for Arab States (RBAS) for their continued support to the development of the approach. We are particularly grateful to Celine Moyroud, Edwine Carrie and Faten Tibi. We appreciate their gracious invitation to host a 3x6 side event at a regional RBAS meeting in Algeria in March 2014, which
