MEASURING FOSSIL FUEL SUBSIDIES IN THE CONTEXT OF THE SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Acknowledgements

Measuring Fossil Fuel Subsidies in the Context of the Sustainable Development Goals has been prepared by the United Nations Environment Programme (UN Environment) in close collaboration with the International Institute for Sustainable Development (IISD) Global Subsidies Initiative (GSI) and experts from the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). The process also involved the establishment and convening of an international expert group who provided advice on the methodology and on the operationalization of the methodology.

A special thanks is extended to the Government of Italy and in particular to Aldo Ravazzi Douvan, for hosting the Expert Group meeting on Measuring Fossil Fuel Subsidies, which was held in Italy in September, 2017.

A list of names of individuals and institutions involved in the assessment process is listed below:

Core drafting team

Peter Wooders and Anna Zinecker of GSI and Ronald Steenblik of OECD were the primary authors. From UN Environment, Joy Aeree Kim and Jillian Campbell were responsible for the production of the report. David Goodman coordinated activities and provided logistical support. Laura Merrill of GSI and Meryem Torun of OECD also contributed to the drafting.

The manual was produced under the overall guidance of Jian Liu, Director of the Science Division of UN Environment and Ligia Noronha, Director of the Economy Division of UN Environment. Additionally, Ludgarde Coppens, Steven Stone, Lowri Rees, Diana Ngina and Alexandre Caldas contributed toward the document production.
