<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Inadequate political and economic appreciation of value of marine and coastal resources • Insufficient cooperation at national level sectors, ecosystem- wide at regional, sub-regional levels. • Absence of integrating common frameworks for delivery collective outcomes 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Growing pressure on oceans and seas putting marine environment and ecosystems at risk • Erosion of natural capital base that constitutes growth base on which Africa can depend 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Potential of contributing to Africa transformation by sustainably harnessing its oceans natural capital - estimated “gross marine product” at USD 24t • strengthened ocean governance - mobilising and coordinating key stakeholders – has short, medium and long positive impacts on ecosystems management • Political will: Agenda 2063 (common regional vision on development) is strong on ocean ecosystems and economic growth • Strong contribution of ocean

AMCEN 2015/2016: Outcomes on ocean issues

Key elements of the “Cairo Declarations” of 2015 and 2016:

- Regional seas programmes in Africa as regional platforms for implementing Africa Integrated Marine Strategy 2050, Agenda 2063 on Ecosystem-Based Management Approaches for marine resources in EEZ and adjacent waters;
- Development of an ocean governance strategy, in accordance with UNCLOS and RSC, for effective management of Africa’s shared maritime resources;
- AMCEN 15 held under the overall theme of “harnessing natural Capital” with oceans as part of theme
- AMCEN SS6 agreed to strengthen existing regional institutional mechanisms in Africa for ecosystem based management of oceans and coastal zones and called upon UN Environment and partners within their respective mandates to organize a conference on oceans in 2017.
- First Planning Meeting – Istanbul, October 2015 - 4 Regional Seas, UNEP - agreed approaches and on scoping study

Next Steps

- 2017

- An overview and scoping study/ gap analysis (on-going) – to be completed by June 2017
- Engaging new leadership at AU- from April
- Use existing opportunities/events to advance Africa's ocean governance
Objective: political buy-in, create awareness, mobilise and consult member states and stakeholders
- PrepCom of UN Ocean Conference in New York, February - side sessions
- SDG High Level Political Forum in June - side sessions and Africa Group of Permanent Representatives in New York
