

Integration of CCA and DRR into Development : Bangladesh Experience

Comprehensive Disaster Management Programme (CDMP II)
Ministry of Disaster Management & Relief

Bangladesh' Context

- * Bangladesh remains to be one of the world's poorest countries, but also the most resilient!
- * Left unaddressed, climate change will increase and intensify Bangladesh's disaster risks:
- * Frequency and intensity of hazards such as flood, drought, salinity, cyclone, tidal surge, sea level rise etc.
- * Which will affect:
  - * (i) Food Security;
  - * (ii) Increased Vector Borne Diseases;
  - * (iii) increased Infrastructural Damage and
  - * (iv) Degradation of Natural Resources, Upon which livelihood is dependent.

Issue 1: Perspective gap

“Conventional development perspectives are not intuitively receptive to DRR&CCA”

3

Perspectives	Sustainable Development Espouses:	Meanwhile, DRR & CCA are leaning more towards
Priorities	Vision	Local risk
Approach	Top down	Bottom up
Scope	Macro	Localized
Time span	Long term	Short-Mid–Long term
Premium	Econ Growth	Reduced Risks

Issue 2: Coordination

Long Term
Vision

Medium
Term Plan

Issues :

- Inter-sectoral coordination gaps
- Two separate ministries for DRR and CCA
- Prominent power dynamics at national and local level

allocations based on size of population and area

Ultimately: Not sensitive to local disaster and climate risks

Issue 3: Institutional Gap

5

And thus the rationale for Integration

6

- Bangladesh cannot afford to go about with the development business-as-usual
- Unless development policy decision is taken today, Bangladesh' future development will not be sustainable

Towards the Integration of CCA/DRR

7

What is integration?

- * CCA & DRR integration
- * is a country driven process
- * Which depends upon the respective countries to what extent mainstreaming is required
- * And to what extent the governance system allows the country to incorporate CCA & DRR into the development process.
