ABOUT

UNFPA, the United Nations Population Fund, is committed to strengthening transparency and accountability, both of which are key principles of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development reflected in the UNFPA 2018–2021 Strategic Plan. The Orange Book of Results is a contribution to the commitment to publish comprehensive, quality and timely information about organizational performance and to continue building trust between UNFPA and its stakeholders. This publication offers a new medium to celebrate and share achievements across UNFPA, making data more accessible to partners and the general public, while at the same time providing evidence for informed programmatic decision-making and continuous learning.

The Orange Book of Results features a selection of key results in line with the UNFPA Strategic Plan 2018–2021 indicators, in addition to results reported directly at the country level. With this publication, UNFPA is moving beyond “business as usual” by showcasing, for the first time, a compilation of annual results reported by country offices. This publication showcases results selected from more than 1,500 results collected from beyond the regular UNFPA reporting framework. UNFPA supported reproductive health care for women and youth in more than 150 countries.

The individual pages of this publication and additional results from the strategic plan indicator framework can be found on the UNFPA Transparency Portal.

Unless otherwise noted, the source of data for country-level indicators is the 2019 annual report prepared by UNFPA country offices.

FOREWORD

2019 was truly a landmark year for UNFPA.

As we commemorated our 50th anniversary, governments worldwide reaffirmed their commitment to the International Conference on Population and Development (ICPD) Programme of Action, joining a diverse coalition of stakeholders at the successful Nairobi Summit on ICPD25.

To deliver on the promise of the ICPD agenda, our staff and partners have been working with great ambition towards achieving three transformative results: ending the unmet need for family planning, ending preventable maternal deaths and ending gender-based violence (GBV) and harmful practices, basing all our efforts on high-quality population data to ensure that no one is left behind. The story of our work in more than 150 countries over the past year is presented here, in the Orange Book of Results.

These results not only capture the progress made towards achieving our ambitious goals, but also the partnership, solidarity and perseverance that underpin UNFPA. This same spirit, along with the continued support of our valued donors, will help us overcome monumental challenges such as the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. Despite this unprecedented crisis, we remain as committed as ever to delivering for the millions of women, girls and young people we serve around the world.

In this Decade of Action to achieve the UN Sustainable Development Goals, we at UNFPA are determined to step up our efforts to meet the sexual and reproductive health needs of the most vulnerable. By sharing key results in this publication, we hope to shine a light on UNFPA-supported initiatives and the incredible work carried out by our staff and partners every day.

UNFPA Executive Director

MESSAGE ON THE VISION

This publication is a snapshot of progress UNFPA has made in 2019 towards delivering on its results as outlined in the UNFPA Strategic Plan 2018-2019. This publication, the first of its kind, showcases the achievements of UNFPA country offices and our partners worldwide. It highlights the progress they have made – through their hard work and concerted efforts over time – to establish sustainable, resilient systems that will facilitate the realization of UNFPA's three transformative results, which promise to change the world for every woman, man and young person.

Across all areas of our mandate and in the six geographic regions where we operate, UNFPA has continued to make progress towards realizing universal access to sexual and reproductive health and reproductive rights. There are many milestones that stand out in this Orange Book of Results, including initiatives to collect data on vulnerable populations who might otherwise be invisible; new laws and policies that secure rights and choices for marginalized women and young people; and achievements in the Pacific and Caribbean Small Island Developing States. These and other successes demonstrate our progress and commitment towards our three transformative results and finally and fully implementing the International Conference on Population and Development Programme of Action.

The Orange Book of Results also demonstrates the efforts UNFPA is making to maximize its transparency and accountability. Together with the UNFPA Transparency Portal and other reporting structures, we hope that we can share the lessons learned and navigate the challenges that we face together – more urgent now than ever in the face of a global pandemic – as we enter the Decade of Action with just 10 years remaining to deliver on the global goals of the 2030 Agenda for everyone, everywhere.
