IMPLEMENTING THE NEW URBAN AGENDA BY STRENGTHENING URBAN-RURAL LINKAGES

Leave No One And No Space Behind

FOREWORD

I am delighted to present the latest analysis of UN-Habitat on “Implementing the New Urban Agenda by Strengthening Urban-Rural Linkages”. UN-Habitat is the United Nations agency mandated to promote socially and environmentally sustainable towns and cities, with the goal of providing adequate shelter for all. It works toward a better (urban) future, for both urban and rural populations.

Our vision includes developing a greater understanding of the transformative forces and process of growing settlements, and how rural settlements merge with towns and cities. The shift in the world’s population towards urban areas creates new dynamics that require a fresh look at how to better balance territorial development by enhancing Urban-Rural Linkages.

In this analysis, UN-Habitat defines priority actions and identifies key actors to improve Urban-Rural Linkages in line with Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development and the New Urban Agenda. The document focuses on the need for partnerships to foster dialogue and cooperation between international agencies, United Nations Member States, all levels of government, civil society, private sector and all other stakeholders working in this field.

As a driver of development and poverty reduction, urbanization can bring prosperity to many regions; it is thus urgent that cities plan and strengthen synergies between urban and rural areas. This UN-Habitat publication serves as a reference for academics, practitioners and national, regional and local governments in the field of enhancing Urban-Rural Linkages.

Sustainable planning needs an inclusive, integrated and territorial approach based on cooperation and communication. This paper will help to address this need.
