

Justice for Women

High-level Group Report

The Pathfinders for Peaceful, Just and Inclusive Societies

When world leaders adopted the 2030 Agenda, they included SDG16, a goal that seeks to create peaceful, just and inclusive societies. Such an overarching ambition was absent from the Millennium Development Goals, the SDGs' predecessor. However, there was no clear path to implementation of this aspirational goal, and no agreement on how to turn it into an agenda for action.

In response, a number of countries took the lead to become the Pathfinders for Peaceful, Just and Inclusive societies. These Pathfinder countries come together to demonstrate the action they will take to build more peaceful, just and inclusive societies, providing a basis for exploring the partnerships, funding, and knowledge sharing required to underpin delivery of this new goal.

The Pathfinders focus on all targets for peaceful, just and inclusive societies, linking the 12 targets from SDG16 to 24 targets from seven other goals that directly measure an aspect of peace, justice or inclusion. They call this SDG16+.

In September 2017, the Pathfinders launched the Roadmap for Peaceful, Just and Inclusive Societies, as a 'first guide' to implementation, supported by 28 Pathfinder countries and 18 international organizations. The Roadmap identifies three grand challenges, areas in which the Pathfinders want to set a policy and learning agenda while raising ambition and increasing political will.

The Task Force on Justice was set up in response to one of these grand challenges—the ambition to provide access to justice for all.

The Task Force on Justice

In February 2018, the Task Force was launched in Buenos Aires, as an initiative of the Pathfinders. It is chaired by ministers from Argentina, the Netherlands, and Sierra Leone, and by Hina Jilani, lawyer and human rights activist who is one of the Elders.

The Task Force on Justice aims to contribute to better justice outcomes for people and communities who are outside the protection of the law, in line with SDG16.3 and related targets on justice, in several ways:

- It will encourage governments (national and sub-national) to make ambitious commitments to implement SDG16.3, backed up by credible, realistic, and funded strategies and plans.
- It seeks to contribute to increasingly coherent and comprehensive support for the implementation of SDG16.3 by international and regional organizations, and by multi-stakeholder partnerships.
- It is at the heart of efforts to build a more effective and empowered movement for justice at global, regional, national and local levels.

The Task Force took on three core tasks: to develop a new global estimate of the justice gap; to make the case for investment in justice; and to identify the strategies, tools and approaches that will increase access to justice.

The Task Force is supported by a growing alliance of justice partners. The World Justice Project, UNODC and other partners are developing a new synthesis of justice data. The OECD and the World Bank are building a case for investment in justice. HiIL is leading a working group on innovation, and the International Center for Transitional Justice is heading the working group on transitional justice. Multiple partners, including UNDP and the Open Government Partnership, are supporting countries to strengthen national implementation.

In this way, the Task Force will act as a platform for commitments on justice ahead of the High-Level Political Forum in 2019.

The High-level Group on Justice for Women

Members of the Task Force on Justice feel strongly that there cannot be justice for all without justice for women, and they made this a priority in the Task Force's workstreams.

On the initiative of UN Women, three co-conveners came together to form the High-level Group (HLG) on Justice for Women, as represented by:

- Phumzile Nguka-Mlambo, Executive Director, UN Women;
- Irene Khan, Director General, IDLO; and
- Sandie Okoro, Senior Vice President and Group General Counsel, World Bank Group.

In addition to the co-conveners, the HLG is composed of high-level representatives from governments, international and national organizations, academics and CSOs, across various regions:

- Abubacarr Marie Tamberdou, Minister of Justice, the Gambia;
- Catherine Harrington, Campaign Manager, Global Campaign for Equal Nationality Rights;
- Dubravka Simonovic, UN Special Rapporteur on Violence against Women, its causes and consequences;
- Frida Angelica Gomez Perez, Director-General, Noticias Tiemposmodernos, and National Councilor for the Evaluation and Monitoring of Public Policies on Youth, Mexican Youth Institute, Mexico;
- Hilary Gbedemah, Chairperson, CEDAW Committee;
- Maria Fernanda Rodriguez, Under-Secretary, Ministry of Justice and Human Rights, Argentina;
- Nana Darkoa Sekyiamah, Director of Information, Communications and Media, AWID;
- Nathalie G. Drouin, Deputy Minister of Justice and Deputy Attorney General, Canada;
- Nursyahbani Katjasungkana, Head, Association of Indonesian Women for Justice, Indonesia;
- Patricia Scotland, Commonwealth Secretary General; and
- Rangita de Silva de Alwis, Associate Dean, University of Pennsylvania.

The HLG was tasked to address the following questions:

Measuring the justice gap for women and girls

What do women and girls need and want when they seek justice? Are the justice needs of women and girls being comprehensively addressed across their life cycle and in challenging circumstances such as during conflict and in post-conflict situations? What is the impact of gender discriminatory legal frameworks and social norms, as well as gender bias, on the delivery of justice for women?

Making the case

What impact will women's increased access to justice have on reducing violence and ensuring access to economic resources and basic services such as land, credit, sexual and reproductive health, and education? What is the case for action and investment in access to justice for women and girls, and how can this case be made effectively?

Understanding what works

What strategies, tools and approaches are likely to increase access to justice for women and girls? How can legal, policy and fiscal reforms be scaled up and accelerated in their favor? How can discriminatory social norms and gender bias be addressed in formal and informal justice systems?

Call to action

What commitments should national and local actors make to close the justice gap for women and girls? How can international and regional cooperation support access to justice for women and girls at national levels? What can be done in the immediate, medium and long term?

The current report is the result of this work. It seeks to bring together insights and make recommendations on strategies to further justice for women.

As such it charts a course that will support implementation of SDG16 and SDG5. The HLG invites justice leaders from across the world to join them in their commitment to further actions to accelerate implementation of the vision of Agenda 2030 on justice for all and justice for women.

Contents

Foreword	9
1. Introduction	11
2. Understanding Women's Justice Needs	14
What do the data show?	15
Cross-cutting challenges	16
Overlapping disadvantage	17
Legal discrimination	19
Plural legal systems	21
Key challenges facing women	22
Intimate partner violence	22
Discrimination against women at work	24
Discriminatory family laws	28
Discriminatory property regimes	30
Gaps in legal identity	31
Exclusion of women from decision-making	33
Criminal justice: women in conflict with the law	34
3. Making the Case for Investment	36
Justice for women is a human right	36
The economic case for investment	36
Gains at the macroeconomic level	38
Patterns across countries	38
Gains via reduced legal barriers to women's labor force participation	41
Gains to greater justice across selected domains: what the evidence shows	45
Increased productivity via access to women's property rights	45
Health benefits of the rule of law	45
Income gains from delayed marriage	45
Gains from eliminating intimate partner violence	46
Combatting sexual harassment	47
Ensuring legal identity	48

4. Addressing the Justice Gap: Promising Approaches	49
A framework	50
Reflections on “Good Practice”	51
Eliminating discriminatory laws	52
Preventing and responding to intimate partner violence	54
Overcoming disadvantage for poor and marginalized women: leaving no one behind	62
Access to legal aid	63
Support from paralegal services	64
Promoting legal literacy	65
Overcoming poverty barriers	65
The needs of women in conflict- affected settings	66
Empowering women –economically and as rights holders	69
Enabling legal identity	69
Strengthening women’s land rights	69
Collective action as a catalyst for justice	72
Eradicating patriarchal biases in family law	74
Equal representation of women in decision-making at all levels in the justice sector	75
Gender-responsive justice institutions, planning and financing	78
Investments in data and monitoring and evidence-based policies	80
5. Call to Action	81
1. Eliminate legal discrimination against women	82
2. Enact legislation, enforcement measures and appropriate response for the prevention of violence against women	82
3. Leave no woman or girl behind: ensure legal services and legal empowerment for poor and marginalized women	83
4. Empower women – economically and as rights holders	83
5. Include women as decision makers	83
6. Strategically work with customary, informal and religious leaders to advance justice	83
7. Invest in data and analysis on women’s legal needs	84
8. Develop new partnerships	84
Acknowledgements	86
Appendix 1: Dimensions assessed in Women, Business and the Law	87
Endnotes	88

List of Figures

Figure 2.1: More people face civil legal problems in countries performing poorly on WPS Index	16
Figure 2.2: Most people report legal capabilities, but fewer women have legal capabilities in countries performing poorly on WPS Index	17
Figure 2.3: Measured rates of discrimination vary across and within regions	20
Figure 2.4: Rates of intimate partner violence are highest in Asia and sub-Saharan Africa	22
Figure 2.5: There are, on average, more biased laws and institutions in the Middle East and North Africa	26
Figure 2.6: Examples of laws that discriminate against women and limit their opportunities, 2018	27
Figure 2.7: Too many countries do not legally guarantee equal hiring or equal pay for work of equal value	28
Figure 2.8: Top 10 countries with the greatest gender gaps in ID coverage	32
Figure 2.9: In most countries there are few women on constitutional courts	33
Figure 3.1: Women's inclusion, justice and peace is associated with human development	39
Figure 3.2: Women's inclusion, justice and peace is associated with higher income per capita	40
Figure 3.3: Women's inclusion, justice and peace is associated with stronger national competitiveness	40
Figure 3.4: In 41 countries, closing gender gaps in paid work would generate at least a 15 percent gain in national income	41
Figure 3.5: How restrictive laws limit women's economic opportunities	43
Figure 3.6: OECD countries experience the largest income losses due to gender discrimination	44
Figure 3.7: The costs of intimate partner violence often exceed spending on primary education	47
Figure 4.1: Promising approaches to justice for women	51
Figure 4.2: South Asia region has the highest share of countries that improved the legal framework over the past five years	53
Figure 4.3: Promising directions for changing social norms around violence against women	55
Figure 4.4: Increasing coverage of domestic violence legislation across countries	56

List of Boxes

Box 1.1: Selected key definitions	12
Box 1.2: The Sustainable Development Agenda and gender equality	13
Box 2.1: Justice journeys in Nigeria	14
Box 2.2: Justice journeys in Uganda and Jordan	17
Box 2.3: Age and disability as forms of disadvantage	18
Box 2.4 Regional spotlight: the Pacific	21
Box 2.5: Sexual violence in conflict settings	24
Box 2.6: Spotlight on sexual harassment	25
Box 2.7: Child marriage laws	29
Box 2.8: The historical evolution and forces affecting family law	29
Box 2.9: Women in prison in the US	34
Box 3.1: The Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) and the Optional Protocol	37
Box 3.2: The costs of unequal justice	38
Box 3.3: Benefits of legal identity	48
Box 4.1: Measurement challenges and shortcomings in the evidence about justice	50
Box 4.2: Multi-pronged strategies: working with men and women for equality	52
Box 4.3: A proposed new model domestic violence court in Argentina	57
Box 4.4: Innovations to support women's justice in rural Uganda	58
Box 4.5: New approaches to addressing domestic violence in Bhutan	59
Box 4.6: Regional human rights treaties and their monitoring bodies on violence against women	61
Box 4.7: Indigenous women in Guatemala leading the way toward justice	62
Box 4.8: Mobile paralegal assistance: experience from Liberia	64
Box 4.9: Improving access to justice in Indonesia	66
Box 4.10: Reparations for conflict-related sexual violence in Kosovo	67
Box 4.11: What the UN is doing to promote justice for women during and after conflict	67
Box 4.12: Informal work: actions for governments and employers	68
Box 4.13: Tools to guide gender land assessments	71

预览已结束，完整报告链接和二维码如下：

https://www.yunbaogao.cn/report/index/report?reportId=5\_21895

