ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The 'Key Barriers to Women's Access to HIV Treatment: A Global Review' was commissioned by UN Women and carried out by ATHENA Network, AIDS Vaccine Advocacy Coalition (AVAC), and Salamander Trust.

The following individuals provided leadership and substantive inputs into the methodology and writing of the report at different stages: Emma Bell, Tyler Crone, Carolina Kenkem, Luisa Orza and Jacqui Stevenson (ATHENA Network); Nasra Aidarus, Emily Bass, Kevin Fisher, Deirdre Grant and Mitchell Warren (AVAC); Sophie Dilmitis, Liz Tremlett and Alice Welbourn (Salamander Trust).

Many thanks to the Global Reference Group (GRG) of Women Living with HIV for their oversight of focus group discussions, interviews, and virtual dialogue spaces: Souhaila Bensaid, Cecilia Chung, Sophie Dilmitis, Pooja Kunwar, Rebecca Matheson, Svitlana Moroz, Suzette Moses-Burton, Hajjarah Nagadya, Daisy Nakato Namakula, Silvia Petretti, Gracia Violeta Ross, Sophie Strachan, Martha Tholanah and L'Orangelis Thomas Negrón.

The country case studies were supported by Megan Dunbar and Definate Nhamo (Pangaea Zimbabwe AIDS Trust); Lillian Mworeko and Dorothy Namutamba (International Community of Women Living with HIV: East Africa).

This review was conceptualized by Nazneen Damji (UN Women) who also provided strategic guidance throughout the report preparation. Thanks to Tesmerelna Atsbeha for substantive inputs during the research and report writing process as well as Elena Kudravnitsa and Apala Guhathakurta (UN Women) for coordinating the finalization of the report, editing, and production.

Inputs were provided from Jantine Jacobi (UNAIDS) and Tamil Kendall (Women's and Maternal Health, Ministry of Health, British Columbia) at various stages of the report development.

Finally, a word of thanks to Jesse Jenkinson for substantive editing, Kelly O'Neill for copy-editing and Manuela Popovici for proofreading this report.
