UNIFEM

UNIFEM is the women's fund at the United Nations. It provides financial and technical assistance to innovative programmes and strategies that promote women's human rights, political participation and economic security. UNIFEM works in partnership with UN organizations, governments and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and networks to promote gender equality. It links women's issues and concerns to national, regional and global agendas by fostering collaboration and providing technical expertise on gender mainstreaming and women's empowerment strategies.

Introduction	1
Why Involve Women?	1
The Role of the International Community in Peace Processes	3
I. Amplifying Women's Voices	5
A. Women are more likely to make an impact on negotiations when they convene as a constituency of women with a common agenda for peace	5
Recommended Actions	6
B. Early in the peace process, the identification of strategic entry points for women's participation can significantly heighten their access to the table and impact on the accords.	7
Recommended Actions	7
II. Constructing an Enabling Environment	9
A. Structures and mechanisms within the office of the facilitator, mediator, or mission can enhance the integration of a gender perspective in peace negotiations	9
Recommended Actions	9
B. Women and their organizations require specific forms of support to maximize their participation in peace negotiations	10
Recommended Actions	12
III. Sustaining Women's Involvement	13
A. Women have specific needs, priorities and strategies that must be included in the peace agreement to guarantee their fulfillment during implementation	13
Recommended Actions	14
B. After a peace agreement has been signed, opportunities exist to maximize women's participation in implementation and monitoring efforts	14
Recommended Actions	16

The United Nations Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM) acknowledges the work of women throughout the world whose courage and determination have led to increased recognition of the value of including women in peace negotiations. The Fund thanks the facilitators who have supported women’s participation in the various peace processes cited in this publication. Our thanks also go to Sanam Naraghi Anderlini, Visaka Dharmadasa, Vjosa Dobruna, Jennifer Klot, Dasa Silovic and Sherrill Whittington for their insights and reflections and to Ivana Krizanic,, who provided research for this publication.

This report has also benefited from the guidance of the Expert Group composed of women with experience in peace negotiations, to whom the Fund is immensely grateful: Carla Koppell (Women Waging Peace), Asha Hagi Elmi (Somalia), Luz Mendez (Guatemala), Sharon Bhagwan Rolls (Fiji) and Sabine Sabimbona (Burundi). The input and contributions from the United Nations Department of Political Affairs have enriched the publication and the recommendations contained herein.

Finally, this publication could not have been possible had it not been for many staff members of UNIFEM, particularly Aina Iiyambo who led the research, consultations and production. We are grateful for insights by staff who provided information and reflected on years of personal experience supporting peace negotiations.
