The Global Plan of Action compels us to use our health systems to respond to, prevent and lead efforts to address violence against women and girls.

It is up to all of us to take action . . . now.

Intimate partner violence and sexual violence are the most common forms of violence experienced by women and girls globally. They happen in ALL countries across the world.

Violence and harmful practices affect
women and girls
at every stage
of life.

child abuse and neglect | female genital mutilation | child marriage

dating violence |
| acid throwing | early and forced marriage | sexual violence | sexual harassment at school, work in public, online | trafficking | intimate partner violence | femicide

elder abuse (sexual violence, violence by intimate partner, violence by family members, carers)

The violence experienced by women and girls is rooted in gender inequality.
