

Outbreak Communication

Best practices for communicating with the public during an outbreak

Report of the WHO Expert Consultation on Outbreak
Communications held in Singapore,
21–23 September 2004

World Health Organization

Outbreak communication

Best practices for communicating with the public during an outbreak

Report of the WHO Expert Consultation on Outbreak Communications held in Singapore, 21–23 September 2004

Communicable Disease Surveillance and Response
<http://www.who.int/csr>

WHO/CDS/2005.32

© World Health Organization 2005

All rights reserved

The designations employed and the presentation of the material in this publication do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the World Health Organization concerning the legal status of any country, territory, city or area or of its authorities, or concerning the delimitation of its frontiers or boundaries. Dotted lines on maps represent approximate border lines for which there may not yet be full agreement.

The mention of specific companies or of certain manufacturers' products does not imply that they are endorsed or recommended by the World Health Organization in preference to others of a similar nature that are not mentioned. Errors and omissions excepted, the names of proprietary products are distinguished by initial capital letters.

All reasonable precautions have been taken by WHO to verify the information contained in this publication. However, the published material is being distributed without warranty of any kind, either express or implied. The responsibility for the interpretation and use of the material lies with the reader. In no event shall the World Health Organization be liable for damages arising from its use.

Contents

Acknowledgements	v
Foreword	1
Introduction	3
I. The experience	5
The special case of outbreaks	7
II. Best practices based on experience	21
Best practices for effective communication	23
Trust: the foundation of effective communication	27
Announcing early: the most consequential decision	31
Transparency: an inherently political issue	39
Public concerns: diversified but legitimate	41
Planning to meet the challenge	45
Steps forward for outbreak communication	47
Annex: list of participants	49

Acknowledgements

WHO gratefully acknowledges the financial support of the governments of Canada, Ireland and Japan and the financial and organizational support of the government of Singapore to the WHO Expert Consultation on Outbreak Communications held in Singapore on 21–23 September 2004 and in the production of this report.

预览已结束，完整报告链接和二维码如下：

https://www.yunbaogao.cn/report/index/report?reportId=5_28396

