PREAMBLE

The Government of Spain and the Government of the United States of America (hereinafter referred to as “the Parties”), aware of the importance of traditional cultural and educational cooperation as a means of strengthening the friendship and understanding between their peoples, agree to pursue further cooperation in these fields. In this regard the Parties highlight the relevance of the Fulbright Program, Expo 92, and the Quincentenary to the overall goals and objectives of this Agreement.

Article I

The principal objective of this Agreement will be to enhance mutual understanding through exchanges in education, culture, and the arts that explore U.S. and Spanish historical experience and contemporary society.

Article II

Cultural and educational cooperation will be given special consideration insofar as it establishes or strengthens lasting ties between Spanish and U.S. cultural and educational institutions. In this regard the Parties will encourage:

- (A) Relationships and cooperation between universities and other educational and cultural institutions of both countries;
- (B) Institutional cooperation in training, advanced study, and joint research for teachers and research scholars from both countries;
- (C) Institutional cooperation in training and advanced study for students and professionals in the arts from both countries;
- (D) Other activities as may be mutually agreed.

Article III

The Parties consider it a matter of special interest to increase the knowledge of their respective languages by encouraging the activities of institutions and organizations engaged in the teaching of English and of Spanish in each of the two countries.

Article IV

The Parties wish to encourage reciprocal knowledge and appreciation of their respective cultures and will therefore promote exchanges aimed at disseminating the best of Spanish culture in the United States and the best of American culture in Spain.
